

A Growing Region Requires a Reimagined Transit System

The NextGen Bus Network Redesign represents our proposed plans to improve service for our customers today and build the foundation for an even better transit network for generations to come.

More Access, More Places: A Smarter, Faster, Better Bus Network

The NextGen Bus Network Redesign outlines major changes designed to deliver a SMARTER, FASTER, and BETTER MARTA.

Smarter

Redesigned bus network that is easier to navigate.

It will enhance the travel experience by providing a more dependable, accessible, and connected bus system – improving access to jobs, education, and essential services.

Faster

Reach more places in less time.

Better aligned service that features streamlined routes, higher frequencies, and more direct connections to jobs and other regional destinations.

Better

A more flexible, accessible, and faster bus system.

Greater accessibility to more destinations systemwide with new on-demand service launching in key zones.

NextGen Bus Network: At-A-Glance

16 Corridors with 15-Minute Frequency

An increase from 5 previous corridors

Access to Transit within 60 Minutes

+24,000 residents and +22,000 jobs are within 60 minutes of travel within the NextGen Bus Network compared to access today

Introduction of New MARTA Service Zones

12 new on-demand service zones

Consistent Service 7-Days-A-Week

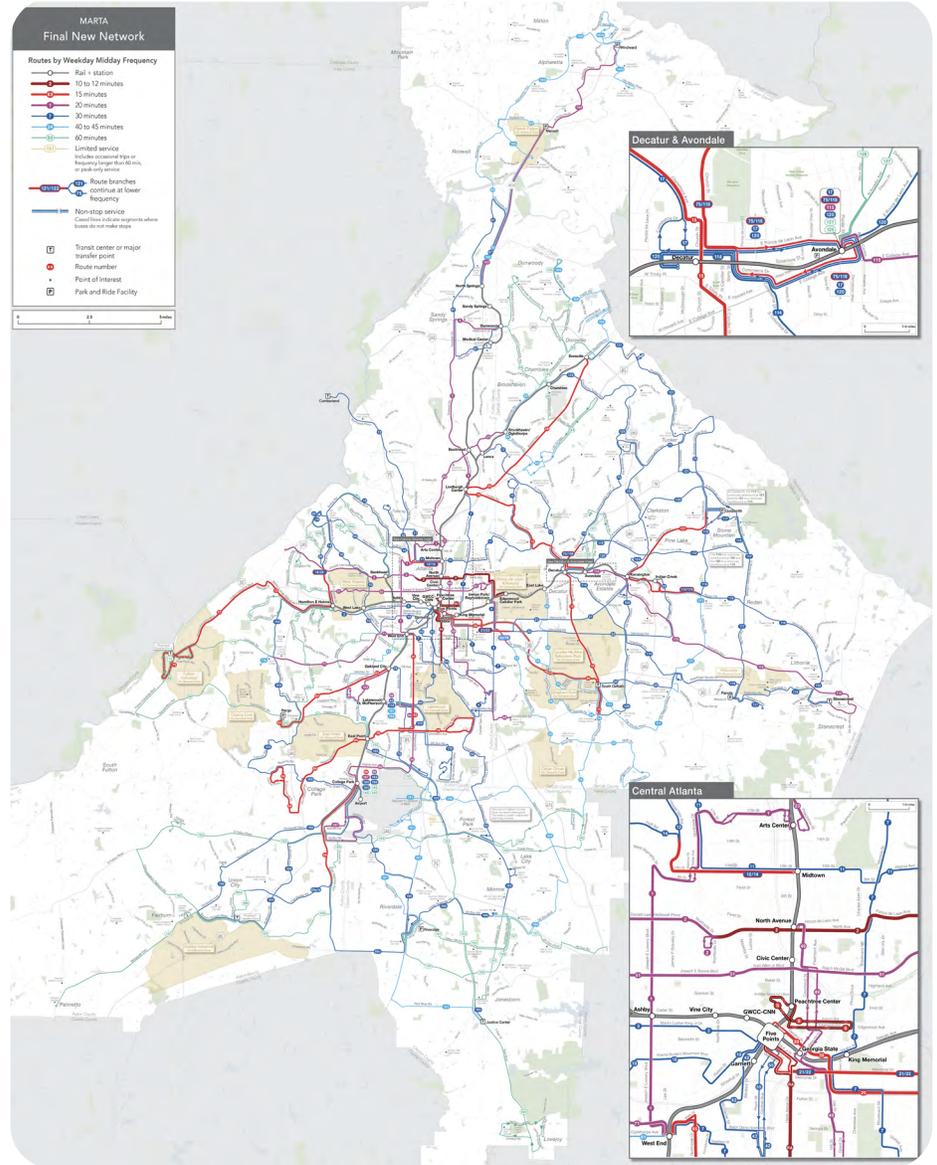

All bus routes and on-demand zones will operate daily

Additional Network Highlights

The final network features 81 routes, including 16 high-frequency corridors (shown in red). Many lower-frequency routes are designed to make timed connections for quicker trips and include 12 on-demand transit zones.

Charting the Road Ahead, Together

MARTA has collaborated with our customers, regional stakeholders, and jurisdictional partners to help develop the final NextGen Bus Network plan. The timeline below outlines the previous work implemented and the course ahead. Visit the NextGen Bus Network website to share your thoughts about the final network and participate in upcoming public hearings.
